

THE HISTORY OF WOMEN'S RACEWALKING IN AUSTRALIA: 1933 AND ONWARDS

I am indebted to Athletics Australian statistician Paul Jenes for much of the information about the early Australasian Track and Field Championships. His monumental tome Fields of Green Lanes of Gold<sup>1</sup>, published in 2001, tells the story in great detail. My short piece focuses on the racewalks and tries to place them in the wider context.

All early results are taken from the website A History of Athletics in Australia,<sup>2</sup> compiled by and maintained by Paul Jenes, Peter Hamilton, David Tarbotton, Fletcher McEwen.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF) was founded in 1912 by 17 national athletic federations who saw the need for a governing authority, for an athletic programme, for standardised technical equipment and world records. The IAAF was quick to embrace men's athletics but they dragged their feet with regard to including women.

It was not until 1921 that the IAAF held an international track and field meeting in Monte Carlo for women. This was followed a few months later by the formation of the Federation Sportive Feminine Internationale and the first women's international match was held in Paris between France and Britain. In 1922, the Women's Amateur Athletic Association was formed in Britain and its inaugural championships were held in 1923.

When the modern Olympics were first held in 1896, women had not been allowed to compete, and it was not until 1922 that a first World Games for women (deemed a "Women's Olympics") was held in Paris in 1922. Women would have to wait until 1928 to get their own spot in the Olympics and women racewalkers would have to wait until 1992 before they could compete at an Olympic level.

The Australian Amateur Athletic Union has been asked by the IAAF to take charge of women's athletics, but it was not until 1926 that any form of official women's athletics took place in Australia and that was due to the NSW men's association which included women's events in their 1926 state championships. This was driven by the inclusion of women's athletics in the 1928 Olympics - Australian women needed some sort of official competition to prepare.

This slow acceptance of women's athletics in Australia is unusual, given the success of Australian swimmers Fanny Durack and Mina Wylie in the 1912 Olympics. The stage had been set, women could compete with distinction on the world stage.

The general attitude of the male-dominated society in Australia was not conducive to women's athletics. Many people felt that women would develop muscles and become unfeminine, even masculine. Women were actively discouraged from participating in sport. Nevertheless, there was no stopping the women and by 1928 three women's clubs had affiliated with the NSWAAA as part of men's clubs - Botany, Kensington and St George. In 1929, women's inter-club competition began in Sydney.

South Australia, Queensland and Victoria women also formed their own associations around this time. But it was not always easy. Early in 1929 a delegate from Glenhuntly AAC in Victoria moved that women's events be included in the state championships. The male delegates were shocked and the motion was soundly defeated. The women went their own way, forming the Victorian Women's Amateur Athletic Association (VWAAA) in December 1929. When the women's association tried to affiliate with the men, they were refused on the grounds that they would flourish better on their own. This resulted in Victorian men and women competing in separate associations until the late 1970's when they were finally amalgamated.

The 1930 Australian National Championships in Melbourne were the first without New Zealand and included 3 women's events - 100 yards, 80 yards hurdles and high jump. The 1932 Australian National Championships in Sydney also included a variety of events for women - 100 yards, 220 yards (invitation), 90 yards hurdles, high jump and 4x110 yards relay (invitation).

The 1930/31 season saw the start of inter-club for women in Victoria at 3 venues - Williamstown and Glenhuntly Cricket Grounds and the Royal Showgrounds. It was not until 1936 the the VWAAA was able to get Royal Park from the Melbourne City Council. By 1939 they had a proper cinder track and dressing accommodation there and they competed at that venue until the merger with the men in the late 1970s.

Nationally, the women went their own way, forming the Australian Women's Amateur Athletic Union (AWAAA) in 1932 and taking control of their own destiny. One could write a separate chapter about the prejudices and discriminations that women were forced to face and overcome in their struggle for athletics equality. Suffice it to say, they did overcome them!

Australian Womens Championships 1932-33 Amateur Sports Ground, Melbourne, 23 & 25 March 1933

One of the AWAAA's first tasks was to organise inaugural Australian Women's Track and Field Championships, which were held in Melbourne in March 1933. Now with a free rein, the program was much more comprehensive – 100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards, 90 yards hurdles, 880 yards walk, high jump, long jump, shot put, discus, javelin and 4x110 yards relay. Entries were small and the cost of travel and time from work during the Depression made it hard for athletes to participate. Nevertheless, the full program was completed, with Victoria and NSW winning five events each.

An 880 yards walk was included on the program and was won by Mabel Moad, a tennis player who had joined Malvern Harriers more for fitness and who had entered a walk as a joke. However, she found she had ability at this event and started to train seriously for it. She finished second in the next three national championships and also won four Victorian track walk titles. She later married well known Victorian athlete and official Alf Robinson and together they committed a lifetime to athletics. She became president of both the State Association and the National Women's Union from 1962 until amalgamation in 1978. Both she and her husband Alf are life members of the Victorian Race Walking Club, as well as many other organisations. They remain two of the giants of Australian athletics.

Mabel's winning 880 yards time of 4:00.3 was granted the status of an inaugural Australian record. However, she may well have heard of young Sydney based prodigy Lorna Carrington who had been regularly breaking 4 minutes for the 880 yards walks over the previous few years. Lorna had won the 1933 NSW Women's T&F Championships 440 yards walk in a State record of 1:40.3 in February but did not travel to Melbourne for the inaugural Australian Women's Championships the following month.

Lorna Carrington and Mabel Moad finally met in competition at the 1935 Australian Women's Track & Field Championships in Brisbane, and it was Lorna who won out, her winning time of 3:49.0 noted in the papers as the best known time done anywhere in the world. Mabel also bettered her 1933 winning time when finishing second with 3:55.4.

Positions were the same in the 1936 Australian Women's Championships 880 yards walk in Sydney, with Lorna beating Mabel by just 2.5 yards, with a time of 3:59.2. One of the major problems trying to track down performances in these early races was the practice of only timing the winner. This was the norm, not only in club events but also in championships and did not change for club events until the 1970s.

This would be Lorna's last championship as she married later that year and soon started a family.

With Lorna Carrington off the scene, Mabel might have expected to win the 1937 Australian Women's 880 yards walk in Melbourne, but she was beaten by fellow Victorian Maisie James, who won with a creditable 3:55.3. Maisie would go on to win the 1937-1939 Victorian 880 yards walks, with a best time of 3:48.6 recorded in 1938.

In February 1940, it was reported that Lorna Carrington had died as a result of complications associated with the recent birth of her third child. With this dampener on proceedings, the Championships went ahead. With Mabel Moad now retired, the title was up for grabs and Iris Dowsey of Collingwood Harriers was up to the task. She also won the 1940-1942 Victorian 880 yards walk titles but had not further chance of competing nationally, with the Second World War about to take centre stage.

Oceania and Australian Summer Roadwalk Championships Fawkner Park, Melbourne, Saturday 27th March 2021

The Australian and Oceania Open 20km and U20 10km roadwalk championships at Fawkner Park in Melbourne on Saturday 27th March. The meet should also have included the Australian and Oceania Open 50km roadwalk championship but none of the 4 entrants made it to the start line. This is a sad finish to what turned out to be the final Australian 50km Championship.

The meet was still a high quality one, with the top 20km walkers chasing Olympic qualifiers and the top U20 walkers chasing World Junior qualifying times. Conditions were cool and overcast, without too much wind but with early rain. So reasonable overall but the course did get a bit slippery at the bottom end, as the Athletics Australia promise to ensure the course was swept pre-event did not eventuate.

Jemima Montag recorded the fastest time on home soil by an Australian when she crossed the line in 1:28.50, ahead of Katie Hayward and Rebecca Henderson. Montag's performance was a personal best by two minutes, while Hayward's time of 1:30.41 also dipped below the Olympic qualifying standard. While Henderson missed the qualifier with 1:32.12, it was a strong result for her 20km debut.

2021 Australian Track & Field Championships Sydney Olympic Park Athletics Centre, 12-19 April 2021

The Open and U20 Women contested a shared 10,000m race at 6:15PM on the Thursday. There was a major boilover in the Open Women's race with Jemima Montag retiring mid race. She had been leading, with Katie Hayward not far behind, when she stepped off the track with 9 laps remaining. In fairness, Jemima had had a superb summer and you can't be at the top of your game in every race. That left Katie to storm through for the win with 43:46.05. 19 year old Rebecca Henderson walked another superb race to take second (a PB 45:13.77) ahead of Clara Smith (47:01.69). The U20 race saw Olivia Sandery win with a huge PB of 47:03.55, ahead of Alanna Peart and Emma Blanch.

That was it for the year domestically. With COVID numbers surging once again, the Winter Nationals were cancelled. Luckily, the Olympics did go ahead but that was all.

The Australia & Oceania Open & U20 Summer Roadwalk championships, which were also the final qualifying opportunity for the WA Race Walking Team Championships, returned to Adelaide. In the women's 20km, Jemima Montag won easily with a new Australian record of 1:27.27, eclipsing Jane Saville's 17 year-old mark by 17 secs. Troubled by injury niggles following her post-Sapporo quarantine at Howard Springs, Jemima's return to form had not been plain sailing, but this walk showed that those issues were now well behind her. Rebecca Henderson, after a battle with Clara Smith, crossed second in 1:31.44, her best by 9 secs. Clara Smith, next home, was delighted with her 3:29 PB for 1:33.37, after not completing a 20km since 2017. Kelly Ruddick sped up to negative-split the second half for 1:36.58, a new Victorian Masters W45 record. The U20 Women's 10km saw local star Olivia Sandery go straight into a lead she never relinquished, extending it with each lap for a commanding win in 46:35.

2022 Australian Track & Field Championships Sydney Olympic Park Athletics Centre, 26 March – 3 April 2022

The Open and U20 Women contested a shared 10,000m race at 6:15PM on the Thursday.

Sydney was hammered by driving rain and cold winds during the week of the championships, putting fast times out of the reach of many, though by no means all. One does not often see winter road season conditions in a summer track championship, and this might have been an eye-opener for spectators unfamiliar with the all-weather, all-year-round aspect of race walking.

Jemima Montag broke away from Katie Hayward and Rebecca Henderson just before the half way mark, extending her lead lap by lap to win with a new meet record of 43:02.97 and cement her place for the upcoming Commonwealth Games. Olivia Sandery won the Women's Under 20 10,000m race walk in 45:28.96 to set a new meet record to secure her place on the Australian Under 20 team heading to the Cali 2022 World Athletics Under 20 Championships.

Australian and Oceania 35km Race Walk Championships Fawkner Park, Melbourne, Sunday 15 May 2022

With the 2021 Olympic 50km walk in Sapporo the final act for this classic international distance, Athletics Australia followed the lead set by World Athletics and dropped its annual 50km championship in favour of a 35km championship. Melbourne's Fawkner Park was the venue for the first-ever Oceania and Australian 35km Championship, with Rhydian Cowley and Kelly Ruddick walking their way into the history books as the inaugural Australian champions.

The Women's race only ever belonged to Kelly Ruddick, who built a commanding lead that eventuated in an emphatic 15-minute victory when clocking 3:00:04 to defeat Laura Langley of New Zealand who was second in 3:15:58. The 49-year-old fought on as she sought the 2:54:00 World Athletics Championships qualifying standard, with the required pace proving a bridge too far on the day.

Australian Winter Roadwalk Championships Middle Park, Melbourne, Sunday 11th September 2022

After two pandemic-driven postponements, the nation's race walkers were able finally to assemble in Melbourne for the Australian Winter Walks championships, 2022 edition.

Coming off a strenuous international program, Bec Henderson was untroubled in winning the Women's 20km title in 1:39:28.

Australian 35km Race Walk Championships Fawkner Park, Melbourne, Sunday 4th December 2022

In what could only be described as an anomaly, Australia had two 35km championships in 2022, the first in May and the second in December.

After weeks of La Nina-driven wintry weather in which all local walkers had trained leading up to this meet, a two-day window of blast-furnace summer heat arrived at Fawkner Park – right on cue to dash any hopes of qualifying times for upcoming international meets – before the return of faux-winter the very next day.

Bec Henderson, having been helped with a fast start by Jemima Montag, ground out the final laps to win the Women's title in 3:01:38 – a time that would have been substantially below 3 hours had conditions been better. Henderson had an added incentive over those last tortuous kilometres, in the form of Hong Kong visitor Siu Nga Ching who was slowly closing the gap and eventually finished less than 1 minute behind.

Australian Summer 20km Roadwalk Championships Fawkner Park, Sunday 12th February 2023

One of the best days of race walking competition ever seen at Fawkner Park saw many of the walkers step up a level, with most recording PBs. In the men's and women's 20km, 12 of the 34 walkers were internationals, but it was Australians Jemima Montag and Declan Tingay who took gold.

Walking side by side at Melbourne's Fawkner Park with double European champion Antigoni Ntrismpioti, Montag appeared to be locked in a tight tussle for line honours as the pair raced in unison. Making her move at the 15km mark, the Australian record holder proceeded to walk away from her Greek competitor with a 21:35 split for the final 5km, en route to her fourth consecutive Australian 20km title. Ntrismpioti successfully set a new Greek record of 1:28:12, while Olympian Rebecca Henderson (Simon Baker) and World U20 rep Olivia Sandery pushed each other to new career-bests.

2023 Australian Track & Field Championships QSAC, Brisbane, 30 March – 2 April 2023

Olivia Sandery seized her first Open title with a big PB in 44:56.00. Olivia, fresh from a huge 20km PB in Nomi, was always going to win, and one wonders what the outcome would have been if Jemima Montag and Bec Henderson had been in the field. Allannah Pitcher ripped almost a minute from her PB with 2nd in 45:43.34. Big PBs also to Hannah Mison in 3rd place (46:02.80) and Hannah Bolton in 5th place (49:08.89).

Elizabeth McMillen was a clear favourite for the U20 title, duly claiming it with a 13sec PB of 47:14.68. The revelations, however, were occurring behind her in the forms of Alexandra Griffin and 15yo Zoe Woods, taking the minor podium places with huge PBs of 48:44.47 and 49:47.73 respectively.
